Sharing Perspectives on the Natural and Cultural Heritage of the Bruce Peninsula

2012 Climate Change Forum

By all accounts the 2012 Forum was a magnificent success - world class speakers, community voices, generous sponsors, and attentive participants. The proceedings are currently in production and will be available on the Sources of Knowledge website later this fall.

New SOK Resources

A resource guide to the natural and cultural history of the Cameron-Cyprus-Horse-Marr Lake complex is available on our Sources of Knowledge website. The SOK guide is written for individuals, including students, who are interested in studying or learning more about these fascinating lakes.

Mammal, Amphibian, Reptile, and Fish species lists for the northern Bruce Peninsula have also been prepared by SOK and are available on our website.

SOK Incorporation

Sources of Knowledge is now incorporated as an independent organization whose mission is to develop and share sources of natural and cultural knowledge related to the Bruce Peninsula. Please feel free to contact our board of directors with any comments or suggestions.

Monitoring Updates

State of the Park reports for Bruce Peninsula National Park and Fathom Five National Marine Park are available at the Parks Canada website: www.pc.gc.ca.

This is a period of significant and novel change in Lake Huron. More comprehensive information on the lakes can be found at the State of the Lake Conference (SOLEC) website: www.epa.gov/solec.

25 Years Later

A new book on the establishment of Bruce Peninsula National Park and Fathom Five National Marine Park has been published by the former Park Superintendent, Bob Day. Shores of Heaven: The Birth of Bruce Peninsula National Parks is readily available in local stores and major on-line vendors.

The Peninsula Bruce Trail Conservancy, in partnership with Source of Knowledge, are pleased to announce that Bob Day will be speaking on the origins of the national parks, as part of this year's Outdoor Festival. The talk is scheduled for September 29, 2012 at 7pm at the Parks Canada Visitor Centre. It will cost $15 to attend the lecture and wine and cheese or $50 for the entire Hike Festival, preregistration is advisable. Details are available at: www.pbtc.ca/festival.

Conservation Landscape

An updated map of the conservation landscape in the northern Bruce Peninsula is available on the Sources of Knowledge website.

Art Show

Sources of Knowledge and Parks Canada are delighted to be celebrating the 25th Anniversary of Bruce Peninsula National Park and Fathom Five National Marine Park with an Art Show: “A Walk in the Park – A Swim in the Deep”. This show, featuring 35 Bruce Peninsula artists, is exhibited at the Parks Canada Visitor Centre Gallery in Tobermory and runs until Thanksgiving. We hope you will have the opportunity to see this eclectic show of artwork inspired by personal relationships with the parks.
